North Central District released twenty-three individuals from isolation; seventeen from Shelby County, three from Spencer County, and three from Henry County monitored their symptoms and complied with a self-isolation agreement with the Health Department.

“Face coverings reduce the transmission of COVID-19 when speaking, coughing, and sneezing, by reducing droplets containing the virus from passing through the air to someone else. Face coverings are our most powerful weapon to fight COVID until there is a vaccine.”, said Roanya Rice, Public Health Director of NCDHD
